REPORT TO LEGISLATURE

NR 600 Series, Wis. Adm. Code

Related to the generation, transportation, recycling, treatment, storage and disposal of hazardous waste, universal waste, and used oil.

Board Order No. WA-40-10

Clearinghouse Rule No. CR 16-007

Basis and Purpose of the Proposed Rule

The proposed rules address federally required updates to the current state rules that regulate the generation, transportation, recycling, treatment, storage and disposal of hazardous waste, universal waste and used oil. The Order revises current rules to incorporate required updates generated from U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) regulations, including: allowing mercury containing equipment to be managed under the reduced requirements of the universal waste rules; conditional exclusions from the rules for management of solvent-contaminated wipes and electronic cathode ray tubes (CRTs) that are recycled; allowing alternative management standards for hazardous wastes generated in academic laboratories and a streamlined permitting process for certain hazardous waste management facilities.

The Natural Resources Board (NRB) first adopted rules for the management of “toxic and hazardous waste” in the late 1960s as part of the Solid Waste rules. In 1981, a separate chapter for hazardous waste rules (NR 181) was established. In 1996, these rules were revised and renumbered into the NR 600 series. Throughout the history of the hazardous waste program, the Board has revised the hazardous waste management rules on numerous occasions to keep pace with state statutory changes and new federal regulations. The most recent NRB adoption of hazardous waste rule revisions occurred in 2010, and involved, in part, the definitions of hazardous waste generator classifications.

This Order includes new rules based on federal hazardous waste regulations already in effect along with federally-identified housekeeping and technical error corrections. The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (department) is required to adopt rules that are at least equivalent to federal regulations under the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) in order to maintain EPA authorization to administer the hazardous waste program in Wisconsin. Federally required updates in this Order that are deemed more stringent than current regulations include a rule specific to hazardous waste combustors and the addition of a new federally listed waste. However, the hazardous waste combustor regulation does not affect any current Wisconsin hazardous waste facilities and businesses affected by the addition of the listed waste currently comply with this federal rule, as it became effective nationwide upon promulgation at the federal level.

Summary of Public Comments/Appearances at the Public Hearing

The public hearing notice was published by the department in the Legislative Bureau Administrative Register, on the Department of Administration website, and in the department public hearing calendar (online) on January 15, 2016. A public meeting was held in Madison, Wisconsin on February 11, 2016. The public comment period ended on February 22, 2016. The public meeting had zero (0) public attendance. The department received no written comments by email or letter prior to the end of the February 22, 2016 public comment period.

Modifications Made

No modifications were made based on public comments or public hearings.

Changes to Rule Analysis and Fiscal Estimate

The department solicited public comments, including seeking feedback from local governmental and municipal associations, on the economic impact analysis during August of 2015. No comments were received and the rule is expected to have no negative economic impacts. Based on the Fiscal Estimate/Economic Impact Analysis, it is expected that positive economic impacts would be possible for small businesses as several of the rule changes are actually relaxations and as such will result in either direct (decreased regulatory costs) or indirect (administrative time savings) cost savings for businesses and entities in affected business sectors. The federal economic impact analysis, required as part of the rule promulgation process, determined that the proposed new and modified regulations would cause "minimal impact, with little or no change in market prices or production." Additionally, the majority of these changes (and specifically the changes that are not considered relaxations) were promulgated under the authority of RCRA as amended by the Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments of 1984 (HSWA). Regulations promulgated under HSWA are effective in all states at the same time, regardless of state authorization status. Thus, most entities and businesses in affected sectors have already implemented many of the changes and will be unaffected by state promulgation of these rules.

Response to Legislative Council Rules Clearinghouse Report

The department delivered the Board Order Number WA-40-10, the Report to the Legislative Council Rules Clearinghouse, and the Fiscal Estimate / Economic Impact Analysis to the Legislative Council Rules Clearinghouse (LCRC) on January 7, 2016. Comments were received from the LCRC on February 4, 2016. The LCRC comments (Clearinghouse Rule 16-007) and the department's responses are summarized in the attached table.

A significant portion (~75%) of the changes recommended by the LCRC, and subsequently revised within the Board Order, involved WI formatting preferences, language modifications to improve clarity or the use of plain language, and citation issues. Several LCRC recommendations would affect administrative rule language or would require substantial time to review or to renumber within the Board Order. As the Board Order rule language was taken directly from federal rule language, and as the current rule package has preliminary approval from the EPA, significant changes to the Board Order administrative rule language could impact receiving final approval of the rule package by the EPA. Final language was reviewed and agreed to by the Wisconsin DNR Bureau of Legal Services. The attached table outlines how each LCRC comment was addressed in the final version of the Board Order.

Final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis

Federal rules require an economic impact analysis for promulgation, and without exception all of these changes were deemed by federal analysis to cause "minimal impact, with little or no change in market prices or production." Additionally, several of the rule changes are relaxations and as such will result in either direct (decreased regulatory costs) or indirect (administrative time savings) cost savings for businesses and entities in affected business sectors. Additionally, many of these changes (and all that are not relaxations) were promulgated under the authority of RCRA as amended by the Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments of 1984 (HSWA). Regulations promulgated under HSWA are immediately effective in all states, regardless of state authorization status.

NO	The Part E discussion is inclusive of the changes outlined in the Sections referenced.
5c	In Part I of the plain language analysis, consider clarifying which rule changes are being made pursuant to the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act Burden Reduction Initiative. For example, is the initiative the basis for the change in SECTION 165 that allows a generator to choose not to make the determination of whether the waste must be treated? Is the initiative the basis for the change in SECTION 165 that removes the requirement that an authorized representative certify that contaminated soil does not contain listed hazardous waste? Is the initiative the basis for the change in SECTION 167 that replaces the requirement that an owner or operator of a recycling facility submit a certification for each shipment of waste with a requirement that a certification be submitted only for the initial shipment of waste?		NO	Changes at this time will have no effect on language or rule intent but would require substantial time and review. This issue will be addressed in the next rule package.
